We want an A. To the person we will pay a liberal salary or allow a large commission. For full particulars address

A "Warrior Bold."

A lawyer gave a dinner party, after which the gentlemen retired to smoke and chat. All at once he got up, took down a sword which formed a trophy, and brandishing it in the air, exclaimed:

"Ah! gentlemen, I shall never forget the day when I drew this blade for the first time!"

"Pray where did you draw it?" said an inquiring guest.

"At a rifle," was the lawyer's rejoinder.—Le Figaro.

Seldom.

Waiter—How do you have your steak?
Tramp—Rare!—Lowell Citizen.

No Pretty Ones Wanted.

Applicant—I understood you wanted a cook?
Madame—Yes; I want a plain cook. Applicant—It's a plain cook, is it? Is your husband a little bit foxy?—Lowell Citizen.

USEFUL AND SUGGESTIVE.

—There is no way of cooking a strawberry that increases its flavor, or retains it unimpaired. The nearest approach to it is when they are served in a properly made shortcake.

For dyspepsia take a teaspoonful of Graham flour and stir in a half tea-spoon of water, sweeten or not just to suit taste, and drink before breakfast. It will help the dyspepsia.

—Soak dried apples for rice pudding in place of raisins. They should be quite tart, and are very palatable; neither do they contain the objectionable seeds of raisins, and are cheaper.

—A New York physician says that a plentiful supply of fruit denotes a healthy summer, and that it is as necessary that people in this climate should eat fruit in the spring and summer as that the Equinians should drink oil in the intense cold of the polar regions.

—Pretty photographs of this season's small green fruits, and hold four or eight pictures can be made of white wood. Along the top a gilt rod, and on it are hung little red, yellow, peach-colored, silk curtains, intended to draw, if one wishes, across the whole row.

—Cotton carpet rags are often quite bright on one side and dull on the other; to get the benefit of the brightest shade the rags, after they have been sewed, may be ironed together, the bright side being folded out, and when wound carefully they will keep in place until worn.—Rural New Yorker.

—To Wash Lace Curtains.—Wash them in warm soap, rinse twice, with water in the last rinsing water. When nearly dry, fold them evenly and lay a weight over them for several hours. Hang them up at the windows while slightly damp. Washing in hot water causes them to shrink. If you desire an even shade, all the curtains in cold color.—Toloso Blade.

—Brown Sugar Puffs.—Make a rich paste; roll out in sizes as you would for any kind of fruit (a small sauce is a convenient size to cut by). Take of brown sugar two cups and butter one third; cream them, and put a little on each puff, fold it together and crimp the edges to prevent its separating. Perforate the tops with a fork and bake quickly. They are very nice.—Ohio Farmer.

The legion of small vermin on our infested houses, can be gotten rid of by a vigorous application of a hot solution of alum to their haunts. This should be used very strong and put on freely with a paint-brush. It is harmless, so far as children are concerned, yet it is effective in getting rid of these pests, which do so much to make the lives of housewives so uncomfortable.—Christian at Work.

—Piquant Sauce.—Brown in two tablespoonfuls of butter two tablespoonfuls of onions sliced or chopped very fine; when partly done add a tablespoonful of flour, and when all is browned pour in a cup of gravy or soup. Add a bay-leaf and a little onion; sweet herbs should be thrown in to simmer for flavoring. Remove these after a few minutes and season with a little salt, black pepper and a dash of cayenne. At the last moment add a tablespoonful of sharp vinegar. A juicy round steak served with this sauce is not to be despised.—Country Gentleman.

OVERCOME BY FEAR.

An Experience Which Made an English Officer's Hair Stand on End.

"Was I ever afraid in battle?" said an English officer. "Many times. But there are different kinds of fright. I have served in India, in Egypt and in Western Africa, but the worst 'freak' I was over in was when there was no enemy within thousands of miles of me."

"I was a Captain at the time and was stationed at Port Royal, Jamaica. We had just got a lot of recruits on our hands, the rawest, greenest recruits you ever saw. I was drilling them in rifle practice at long range, and had great trouble to make them obey orders with precision. In fact, one could never be sure whether they would fire when you wanted them to present, or present when you wanted them to fire."

"I had been sending them through a practice one afternoon, and they were so terribly stupid that I got into a vile humor. The day was fearfully warm, and the sun beat down so fiercely that my horse, a wicked brute, got into an almost unmanageable temper. I sat on my horse at the right of the squad and was giving them volley practice at long range. When my patience was entirely gone, the men seemed to gain a little sense, and began to fire with rapidity and accuracy. Things were running as smoothly as clock-work, and I was soon soothed into cheerfulness despite the heat. Not so my horse. He was never more vicious.

"Once I cried out 'Ready!' and the work was as pretty as that of veterans. 'Present!' and every rifle went up to shoulders in perfect form. At the very instant I was about to say 'Fire!' my freighting horse bolted, cutting directly across the range. I was not twenty feet from the squad. My eye caught the glittering rifles leveled right at me, and instinctively I closed my eyes and ducked my head. If you know what British soldiers are, you can imagine my feelings, my terrible fear, for, as I said before, I was never before in such a 'funk'."

I knew that if I opened my mouth these recruits would riddle my body with rifle balls, for they were expecting the word 'Fire!' and drilled sufficiently to distinguish a different order at the last instant, and yet followed one's words with a blind fidelity.

"I have often thought," added the officer, with a strange smile on his lips, "that those recruits fancied I had cut across them to test their drill, for they showed no surprise, not the faintest sign of emotion when I suddenly wheeled and cried 'Fire!' But you may well believe that this was not the case. As I pledge you that I never afterward in rifle practice did I get caught in so dangerous and helpless a situation."—N. Y. Tribune.

Evaporated.

Mrs. Pennifeather—Goodness gracious! I wonder what in the world has become of all my tarts?

Mr. Pennifeather—Where did you put them?

Mr. Pennifeather—Right on the window sill here.

Mr. Pennifeather—That accounts for it. You have carelessly exposed them to the sun.—Burlington Free Press.

Eczema Cured by S. S. S.

Mrs. S. RESAUZ, Waldo, Fla., writes the following under date of Feb. 11, 1890: "I suffered with Eczema for about two years. About this time I was advised by friends to try your Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), and I am happy to say that after using six bottles I was entirely cured, and I never lost an opportunity of recommending it to any one I find suffering from any disease of the blood."

He Profits by His Friends Experience.

"I have been troubled with pimples and blotches on my face for years, during which time I tried numbers of standard remedies, but without receiving any benefit. Profiting by the advice and experience of a friend I commenced taking your Specific (S. S. S.), and the effect it had on me overcame all expectations. After taking two bottles the pimples and blotches entirely disappeared, and my skin is clear and without a blemish."

A Very Good Reason.

Druggists who are selling Smith's Tonic Syrup, made by Dr. John Bull, of Louisville, Ky., wonder that its sales increase so rapidly. At first they began to buy a quarter or a half dozen, but found that amount was not sufficient in a single day, and now they say they are obliged to buy in half gross and gross lots in order to keep a supply on hand. There is a very good reason why Smith's Tonic Syrup should sell so well. There is not much newspaper advertising done, but it advertises itself. Every bottle used is an advertisement, for it does exactly what it is expected to do.

This was disastrous, inasmuch as the court judge was the only one of the three who knew any law. However, one of the justices present volunteered to look up the law, and started out for that purpose. He had reason to believe that he would find the delinquent in some sation, and so he took a look into every gin mill that he came to.

The result was that, by the time he found the object of his search, he himself was in a condition of utter indifference as to what school kept or not, and forgot all about the court and his errand.

"When the court had waited vainly for an hour the United States Marshal sent sent to hunt up the two justices. He pursued the same tactics as the visiting saloons in turn, and was in a blissful condition of inebriation by the time he came up with the convivial pair. After another hour of delay the remaining judge sent to the United States Attorney to make search for the missing ones; but he, too, pursued a like course—mind you, all this is strictly as it occurred—and did not appear again. So, as a last resort, the leading lawyer of the Territory was dispatched to gather in the vandalers and the result this time was successful. At about three p. m.—the court had been convened at 10:30—the two judges, the marshal and the attorney were seen to emerge from a whisky shop and to pursue a dignified though serpentine course, arm-in-arm, up the street toward the court-house. To get through the door of the court-house they were obliged to relinquish each other's support, and in trying to make their way to the bar they fell over the tables, smashed the chairs and created general confusion.

"Gentlemen," said the sober Judge from the bench in a loud voice, "this court stands adjourned until 10:30 tomorrow morning."

"Soon after I took up my residence in the Territory," continued Senator Pettigrew, "I had occasion to defend a man before the Chief Justice. In the case of alleged horse-stealing. The prosecution had absolutely no proof to offer, and the case against my client was so absurd that I said the defense would not take the trouble to offer any evidence. Well," said the Chief Justice, "you'd better offer some mighty quick, for that hasn't any evidence to offer in this court against a charge of horse-stealing goes to jail, you bet."

"Not long after this the same Chief Justice had occasion to try one of his own Associate Justices for perjury. The indictment was brought by the Associate Justice's grand jury, and the accused called in the Chief Justice to try the case in his own (the Associate Justice's) court. Defendant's attorney began proceedings by denouncing to the indictment. This puzzled the Chief Justice, who turned to the accused and asked whether or not such a case as denunciation should be sustained or not. The defendant promptly replied that it must be sustained, whereupon the Chief Justice so ruled. 'Now, what follows?' he inquired of the accused, and was told that such action necessarily disposed of the case. 'The case is dismissed,' then said the Chief Justice, and the Associate Justice was vindicated.

"Another time, in trying a real estate case, I took exception to several of the Judge's rulings and he got angry. 'You can take all the exceptions you have a mind to,' he yelled, 'but I'd have you know that this court is a gentleman!'"

"I note another exception to that proposition," I replied, "and I am willing to carry it to the Supreme Court."—Washington Star.

JUSTICE IN DAKOTA.

Senator Pettigrew Tells of Some Funny Experiences in Courts.

"The administration of justice in Dakota when I first went out there to grow up with the country was exceedingly primitive," said Senator Pettigrew. "Judges for territorial courts were sent out from the East—nearly all these men whose indolence or bad character had rendered them desirable persons to get rid of. There was one instance, I remember, where the supreme court was convened with only two of the three justices on the bench, the odd one not turning up."

This was disastrous, inasmuch as the court judge was the only one of the three who knew any law. However, one of the justices present volunteered to look up the law, and started out for that purpose. He had reason to believe that he would find the delinquent in some sation, and so he took a look into every gin mill that he came to.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Some of the Recently Imported Fabrics for Summer Gowns.

Among recently imported fabrics for summer gowns are diaphanous white nets and silk mousselines painted with flowers in all their natural tints, arranged as a border near one edge and strewn in small sprays over the whole surface—roses, carnations, orchids, or violets on pure white grounds. In black nets the new suggestion is cream white embroidery representing real point-lace wrought on a scalloped edge for the foot of the skirt, in a narrow insertion for trimming on the other edge, and in small sprigs in the spaces between. Eerie nets for dresses are wrought all over with pink and white blossoms, or else the large-meshed silky net has merely thickly wrought mitered edges at the foot, all in eerie tones.

The wool barges worn a generation ago are revived for summer dresses, both in plain colors and brocaded with small blossoms, as gray barge with white flowers, black with green leaves and eerie with roses. New veillings of thinnest wool have large separate blossoms embroidered, and the rows of drawn-work that border one edge, as red veiling wrought with large black pansies, and black veillings with pansies in all their natural tints. Eerie and gray batistes have bands of violet and white ribbon applied as borders, with single long-stemmed violets embroidered over the fabric, while other creamy batistes have gold-thread borders of bands and vines most exquisitely wrought. Thin summer cashmires in turquoise, mahogany, pale gray and bright red shades have small black lace flowers inserted all over the breadth, with rows of lace insertions at one edge for the foot of the skirt, the yoke and sleeve trimming.

A novelty in summer cloths and camels-hair for making Spanish jackets and for sleeves and borders of silk gowns is plain cloth thickly studded with studs or white jets in small faceted studs. Black, gray, or beige colors are the grounds for these cloths, and they are made up in combination with bengalines and India silks, with trimmings of silk cords and spiked ends of the same material as that in the studs. This unique combination is prettily illustrated in a gown of black India silk strewn with long pink and green leaves, worn with a Spanish jacket, cuffs, and skirt border of gray cloth thickly studded with steel. The silk waist represents a blouse in front, but is closely fitted in the back, and has a turned-over collar and full sleeves. Over this is a jacket or sleeveless bodice of the new gray cloth studded with steel, fitted in the back by black cord lacing down the middle, and supplied with large eyelets in front, through which similar cords with steel tags lace it across the full blouse of silk. Deep cuffs of the studded gray cloth on the silk sleeves are laced up to the elbow with hanging spiked ends of steel. The silk skirt has eight large loose knit pleats forming its front and sides, with three straight black bands gathered at the top, and the studded cloth is used as a wide border at the foot of the front and up each side as a panel.—Harper's Bazar.

MEALS FOR SUNDAY.

Hints for Women Who Do Not Care to Spend the Sabbath in the Kitchen.

Here is a hint in regard to Sunday meals. It may help some women to get more time to rest on Sunday and at the same time have a tasty dinner.

On Saturday morning buy a piece of neck beef. With a sharp knife cut out the lean part, leaving fat, gristle and bone. Put lean pieces in a wooden bowl and chop very fine, season with butter size of a hen's egg and pepper, salt and sage. Press into thin cakes and set away in a cool place. Put fat, gristle and bones into a kettle, cover with cold water, set on the stove and cook slowly till the bones will slip out. Remove the bones, season with salt and pepper and set away.

Sunday morning, lay the beef cakes in a very hot spider without any fat and cook over a hot fire. Make coffee and out a generous quantity of bread, and breakfast is ready. After breakfast, peel potatoes and any other vegetables that are relished and leave in water till twelve o'clock.

Put the meat and broth and vegetables in a kettle, and stir up a dumpling made of a quart of flour, a small half-teaspoon of lard, two teaspoons of baking-powder and water enough to make a soft dough. Lay the dumplings over the meat and cook forty-five minutes. This with tea and coffee, bread, butter, pickles and pie will make a dinner good enough for any one, and need not take more than one hour to cook and serve, thus leaving the housewife more time for Sabbath rest and thought. Don't try to get supper on Sunday. If necessary, have a pinch of bread and milk or crackers or crackers or cake just at dark. Save strength and health by being careful not to overwork at any time.—Ella E. Hedge, in Farm and Fireside.

"Yes, sir."

"Well, answer them all on postal cards."—The Jury.

Mrs. Jason (with an air of triumph)—These funny men hold the mirror up to nature very successfully. One can hardly pick up a paper without finding some joke about a man being killed by his wife. But there is very little said about the other side of the question.

TUESDAY, - AUGUST 19, 1890.

Simpson county will vote on prohibition August 23.

The Force Bill will not be passed this year. Some other year, perhaps.

The census count has gone far enough to estimate the population of the country at 64,000,000.

The Wheelers of the First District have called a convention to meet at Paducah, August 29th, to nominate a candidate for Congress, in opposition to Capt. Stone.

The crimes of the Winchester forger, Hume Clay, continue to grow as more light is obtained. His forgeries now foot up $129,000. Clay is believed to be in Mexico.

Away up in Boyd county, where the Republicans and sinners have been having things their own way for many years, the Democrats elected their whole ticket by over 200 majority.

Two Davies county paupers, both over 60 years of age, left the poor house together the other day and were married, the keeper refusing to let them marry while under his charge.

Rev. Andrew Hunter, of Little Rock, was stricken with paralysis while preaching a sermon on repentance. He suddenly stopped and exclaiming "My work is done," fell down in the pulpit. He is past 70 and had been a preacher for 50 years.

Louisville had the biggest fire for many years last Thursday. The Kentucky Distillery with 25,000 barrels of whisky was burned through the carelessness of a colored watchman, who knocked over a lamp. Several other buildings adjoining also went up in smoke. Loss $2,000,500 with very light insurance.

A close question for the courts to decide has been raised in Johnson county. S. T. Bayes the successful candidate for County Clerk did at 3 o'clock p. m. election day. He received 600 more votes than his opponent E. F. Hawes, but which of them was elected? That's the question.

The Wheelers of Henderson county, in their primary meeting Saturday afternoon, endorsed Congressman Ellis for re-election. A district convention at Sebree next Thursday is expected to do the same thing, as Henderson is the county where Editor Givens has been supposed to be strongest.

Adair county, which has for a long time been in the hands of the Phillips, was landed safe on the right side during the recent groundswell. The entire Democratic ticket was elected by majorities of from 100 to 250, and the Columbia Spectator is justly proud of the sweeping victory Shaker.

The election in which prohibition was repealed in Todd county by 189 votes, it is claimed, was illegal from the fact that the law as to posting notices ten days beforehand was not complied with. If this is true, the election will doubtless be held to be null and void and prohibition will still hold the fort.

The Farmer's Home Journal brings forward Dr. John D. Clardy, of this county, as the man for the farmers of the State to support for Governor next year. We do not know that Dr. Clardy has gubernatorial aspirations, but we do know that he is a sound and consistent Democrat, an intellectual and cultivated gentleman and a man of the highest Christian character. He would make a good Governor and one who would reflect credit upon the State as well as himself.

Dr. Clardy for Governor.

[Paducah Standard.]

The Farmer's Home Journal nominates Dr. John D. Clardy, the delegate-elect from Christian county, to be the next governor. The suggestion will meet with a good deal of favor in the west where Dr. Clardy is known. He is a genuine farmer, a man of education, refinement and brains. There is no occasion in Kentucky for the arraignment of one class against another in the Democratic party, but where recognition can be given to the farming classes, forming a large majority of the party in the State, there is no reason why it should not be done. There is no questioning Dr. Clardy's ability, honesty or Democracy, and if after making a good record in the Constitutional Convention, he should enter the race for governor, he will have a strong and enthusiastic following.

Mr. John Carpenter, of Goodland, Ind., says: "I tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for diarrhoea and cramps and pains in the stomach and bowels with the best results. In the worst case I never had to give more than the third dose to effect a cure. In most cases one dose will do. Besides it's other good qualities it is pleasant to take." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Buckner Leavell.

A PRIMARY SEPT. 27.

Qualifications of Voters and Compensation of Election Officers Fixed by the Action of the Committee.

The Democratic executive committee of the Second Congressional district met at the Barrett House, in Henderson, at noon Saturday in accordance with the call of the district chairman, Urey Woodson. There were present Urey Woodson, chairman; R. W. Slack, of Davies county; S. Powers, of Hancock county; S. A. Young, proxy for A. T. Dudley, of Henderson; J. J. Glenn, proxy for A. K. Bradley, of Hopkins county; A. Y. Cravens, proxy for Geo. S. Priest, of McLean county; R. B. Beckman, of Webster county, and H. D. Allen, of Webster county.

Urey Woodson took the chair as ex-officio chairman, and H. D. Allen was elected secretary.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That for the purpose of ascertaining the will of the Democrats of this, the Second Congressional district, in a choice of a Democratic nominee for Congress, a Democratic primary election is hereby called which primary shall be held in each county of said district, at the various legal voting precincts therein on the 27th day of September, 1890, between the hours of 6 a. m. and 7 p. m. and the primary poll books shall be returned within three days to the chairman of each county committee, and the chairman or their duly authorized proxies shall meet at the Barrett House in the city of Henderson on the 4th day of October, 1890, count the vote and ascertain the candidate receiving the highest number of votes, who shall be declared the nominee.

Resolved, That at such primary no person shall be entitled to a vote unless he voted for Cleveland at the last Presidential election, or who not then voting is known to be a Democrat. Provided that anyone offering to vote who is not 21 years of age shall be entitled to a vote if he will be of age on the day of the November election and is a Democrat, and provided also that any Democrat who may not on account of residence be a legal voter in his precinct on the day of the primary but who will be at the November election, shall be entitled to a vote.

Resolved, That the officers of election in each precinct shall consist of two judges and a clerk, to be appointed by the respective chairmen of the counties composing this district, and who shall decide all questions that may arise in the casting of any vote, from whose decision an appeal may be had to this committee at its meeting to count the vote and declare the nominee. Each officer of election shall be entitled to $1.00 for his services to be paid equally by the candidates whose names appear on the poll books. The chairman of this committee shall have prepared and furnished to the county chairman suitable poll books for the respective counties, the cost of which shall be paid by the said candidates. The payment for officers' services shall be made to the chairman of the committee who shall pay same to the county chairman for distribution as has been provided.

Resolved, That this committee adjourn to meet at the Barrett House in Henderson on October 4, 1890, at 1 p. m. Urey Woodson, Ch'n. H. D. ALLEN, Secretary.

A Hawesville correspondent of the Owensboro Messenger, has this to say of the Wheelers' Convention at Sebree Thursday:

"From a prominent member of the Alliance of this county I learned that the meeting at Sebree City would, in all probability, nominate that friend of the farmer, and a man who is one of the titlers of the soil, Hon. Jas. A. McKenzie. He said there was a general desire for Mr. Kenzie and he thought that would be the result of the above mentioned district convention."

The Kentuckian happens to know that Mr. McKenzie, since accepting the World's Fair Commission for five years, is out of district politics. He is not a candidate for Congress and is furthermore too good a Democrat to accept any nomination not made within the lines of the Democratic party.

FARMERS IN THE SADDLE.

They Will Control in Kentucky and Elect the Next Governor.

Dr. John D. Clardy, of Christian County, the Man for the Position.

[Farmers Home Journal.] This is a year of surprises in the South so far as political matters are concerned. For two or three years the farmers organizations, known as the Wheel and Alliance, have been steadily growing in numbers and aggressiveness. It is not necessary here to relate the grievances of farmers further than to point to the general depression which pervades all the agricultural regions. Farmers are dissatisfied at seeing all other branches of industry prospering while their own is getting worse and worse.

Hence they have determined to take a hand in politics. They do not form a new party south, but seize, by force of numbers, upon the dominant party and place their chosen men in the highest places in the State and force their conventions to nominate farmers for Congress. They have won in Georgia, South Carolina, Mississippi, Texas and Tennessee. They are getting control in other States and all things indicate the nomination of the Democratic Governor of Kentucky next year.

The uprising in this State will be ripe for work about the time of the State convention.

Farmers believe they have been neglected; that the laws are made in the interest of other classes—not only in the national Congress but in the State Legislature. They are ready to burst the bonds with which politicians have held them and become masters in fact as they are in numbers.

They will probably name the next governor of the commonwealth and all signs point to

DR. JOHN D. CLARDY, of Christian county, as the most intelligent and best posted farmer for the position. Dr. Clardy is a man of experience in affairs, a successful farmer—well informed in governmental matters—and a student of political economy.

He has been for many years at the head of the State Grange and President of the State Farmers' institute. So popular is he in his own county that he carried it last week by over 350 majority for Delegate to the Constitutional Convention, though it has gone Republican for twenty years by large majorities. This shows his standing at home.

He is operating two farms of 500 acres each, and makes them pay. He can do more good in the gubernatorial chair than any politician and the Farmers Home Journal hopes to see a general uprising in his favor. Now is the time for farmers to speak out. Who seconds the nomination?

GRACEY VICINITY.

BLAKLEY'S SCHOOL HOUSE, TRIGG COUNTY, KY., Aug. 11.—At half past one o'clock p. m. Tuesday Mr. Walter Stewart departed this life at the home of his father, Mr. L. J. Stewart. He was stricken down some four weeks ago with a severe illness and bore his afflictions with patience till death released him from his sufferings. His death is indeed a sad, a severely sorrowful blow to his parents, as well as his friends and relatives. He was beloved and revered by everyone who knew him. He was buried at the old Lander burying ground, near old Bellevue, Wednesday morning, Eld. J. U. Spurlin made a short talk and led in prayer. May he rest in peace till the trumpet of the resurrection morn shall call us all back to life to give an account before the sacred judges for the deeds done in the body.

We extend to the sorrowing friends and relatives a sympathy as earnest as it is sincere, and devoutly trust that the halloving influence of the healer of all bereavement will gently soften the poignancy of the bitter grief that is now filling their hearts to overflowing.

We are glad to state that Mr. W. J. Burgess, who has been very sick for some time, is now convalescing.

Mrs. Nancy Warren is very sick with the flux, at this writing.

Mr. C. M. R. Cox and Mrs. S. F. Cox made a flying visit to Mr. G. H. Boyd, of the Kelley district, last Friday and returned Saturday.

Mrs. Bettie Boyd is visiting her parents a few weeks.

Miss Essie Cox has been visiting Miss Ida Boyd for a week past.

The Little River Association, which was held with the West Union church, closed its seventy-eighth annual session Friday. They had a very nice time, although the crowds on Wednesday and Thursday were small. But on Friday the crowd was very large. Mr. Henry Blakeley has been wearing a face of merry smiles for a few days. It's a girl. Born to the wife of Mr. L. R. Stewart on the 24, a fine boy.

OUR GOODS ARE RELIABLE.

The philosophy of trade forces prices to correspond with quality. No man can buy for a dollar that which is worth two dollars, nor can one man make for a dollar what another and more experienced man can produce for twice as much money. There are prices and prices and qualities, and every time they correspond. Our advice to buyers, whether they buy washtubs or steamships, is to purchase of a reliable house with a pronounced reputation. The dealer who has one price and maintains it, gives positive evidence of the standard value of his goods. It is worth something to know what you are going to get.

CREAM OF NEWS.

A Considerable Increase.

The committee to investigate for the county have reported an increase of $70.92 in the shortage of Ex-Sheriff Brown for 1881, taking the State's investigation as a basis. The next year to be taken up will be 1882.

The Teachers' Institute.

The institute of county teachers adjourned Friday after a session of five days. One of the most important steps taken was the division of the county into four districts in which sub-institutes or associations will be held at the following times and places:

- No. 1. Dogwood Chapel, Sept. 14.
- " 2. Consolation, Sept. 20.
- " 3. Church Hill, Sept. 6.
- " 4. Beverley, Sept. 20.

On Oct. 4 the County Association will hold its regular annual meeting in this city.

The Richards Family in Luck.

A bill providing for the payment of the French spoliation claims, aggregating $1,233,688, was passed by the Senate Friday. This claim has been pending for many years and among its beneficiaries are the Richards family of this State, who are of French descent. Mr. H. C. Richards, of this city, and Capt. Richards, of Trigg county, are among the claimants and their attorneys estimate that they will receive about $25,000 each as their shares of the allowance, provided the claim passed is the one in which their family is interested. Mr. H. C. Richards thinks it is, and we trust he is not mistaken.

Johnny Russell Hurt.

Johnny Russell, oldest son of Mr. J. D. Russell, was painfully hurt by an accident at Mr. M. V. Owen's Thursday evening. He had spent the day at Mr. Owen's and was in the act of mounting his horse with a gun in his hand, to start home, when the saddle turned. In trying to keep from falling, the gun was thrown up and the hammer struck him just above the left eye. The eye-brow was terribly lacerated and an ugly cut also extended up the forehead. With great fortitude he rode home, about three miles, although greatly weakened from pain and loss of blood. His wound was dressed by Dr. Hickman and the patient was able to sit up Sunday, though his face was still much swollen.

Another Contest.

Robt. Lander, who was defeated by Col. M. D. Brown for City Judge, has served notice of contest upon Judge Brown, upon the ground that he received the votes of persons living outside the city limits. Col. Brown anticipating this step has already accepted the names of between 40 and 50 colored voters from Gainesville and other suburbs who voted for his opponent and is confident if the contest is gone into his majority of 20 votes will be largely increased by the throwing out process. The contest will take the same course as the Covano-Prowse contest and come before the same board at the same time—Sept. 8. This being the case many of the illegal votes discovered in the one case will also affect the other—except the votes of the white Republicans, few of whom voted for the colored candidate.

Cadiz to the Rear.

Cadiz has made a blunder that her progressive people will never cease to regret. A proposition to establish a system of graded schools was voted down by the moneybags and mossbacks and the town will have to continue the old order of things and have such a school as the public money will sustain a few months in the year. Two years ago the same fight was made in Hopkinsville, but fortunately for all the enemies of the public good were in the minority and Hopkinsville now boasts the finest public school system in the State outside of Louisville. It was a bad day for Cadiz when such a proposition was defeated by the people and she has the sympathies of the outside world in the affliction of old-fogymism that has befallen her. There is not much future for a town that deliberately refuses to educate its children and fit them for entering with equal advantage the walks of life and the avenues of business.

Eq. Tinsley's Nightmare.

"I want to tell you about an experience I had this morning," said Esq. Tinsley to a KENTUCKIAN man last Saturday.

"Some time before day I was disturbed by a horse that kept walking around on the pavement under my window. Finally I could stand it no longer and got up and went down to the street to drive the animal away. Imagine my surprise to see a horse bridled and saddled with a dog sitting in the saddle. I went up to the horse to take hold of the bridle, but the dog began to growl and it was some time before I succeeded in getting him off the horse's back. I then hitched the horse, or mare whichever it was, and went back to bed. In a short while I heard the horse walking again and looking out the window saw the dog again in the saddle and the horse had been unhitched and his rider was leisurely riding him off down the street."

Esq. Tinsley is positive that the facts were just as related and that he was indulging in an ordinary nightmare.

The show was far ahead of public expectations and upon the whole a very meritorious performance was given to a large crowd in the afternoon. This was the only circus of the season and the population was hungry for a show. The weather was threatening in the forenoon, but the day turned out to be fairly favorable.

BUSY BURGLARS.

They Are Too Numerous to Be Agreeable.

More Night Policemen Who Will Shoot to Hit.

Our citizens have been greatly annoyed of late by burglars. Two or three times a week entrances have been effected in residences in different parts of the city, and retiring at night all have to take precautions to keep out the scoundrels. The police force is altogether inadequate for the protection of our people, as they are not sufficient in number to keep a watch over all parts of town. The thieves seem to be aware of this fact and make their raids where they are not liable to run across a blue-coat.

Last Saturday night the residence of Mr. Clarence Anderson, in the Southern part of town was entered. When Mr. Anderson's eldest daughter, about half past ten, went to her room up stairs accompanied by a young lady who was spending the night with her, Miss Anderson stepped to one of the windows leading to the porch, and saw the crouching form of a man on the porch under the window. She gave the alarm, and Mr. Charlie Anderson, who was in his room sound asleep, on being awakened found that the lamp which he had, left burning on retiring, had been put out, but he rushed into his sister's room just in time to see the retreating figure of the man who had already been in or intended entering his sister's room. He says it was a white man, if his pistol had been loaded he could easily have shot him. The alarm that was raised aroused the whole house, but nothing had been taken by the thief.

Last Sunday night the residence of Mr. E. B. Long was entered. Mr. Long says that the thief got into the dressing room where he had left the gas burning, partially closing the door of his sleeping chamber, so that a dim light was cast into the room. He says that he had a little apprehension about burglars, and when he retired Sunday night he took the precaution of hanging his vest, containing his watch under a lot of clothing so that it could not be easily found, but when the burglar opened the door leading into his room from the dressing room he evidently heard the ticking of the watch, and looked up the vest containing it and appropriated both watch and vest. He also took Mr. Long's "Sunday pants," which were near at hand containing $3.50 in money and his bunch of keys. Mr. Long awoke at 1 o'clock and knew there was something wrong by the gas, which burns all night, being turned out, but the thief had left the house as quietly as he had entered it.

Mr. Long's loss is a fine gold watch and chain, $3.50 in money, a pair of pants, a vest and bunch of keys. The thief started with Mr. Long's shirt, but kindly left it at the window where he made his exit.

The residence of Mr. John Hester, just across the street from Mr. Long's, was next visited the same night, but nothing was obtained.

Mr. J. N. Calhoun's house was entered the same night, but we have not been able to learn the result.

Quite a number of other residences have been visited recently, amongst which was that of Messrs. West, our popular and efficient Sheriff. No longer than last Friday night Mrs. West heard a suspicious noise at one of her bed-room windows, and soon saw a man's hand trying to open the window shutter. Mr. West, who was enjoying a fine night's sleep, and probably dreaming about his late victory, was aroused and fired two shots—probably just to let the burglar know that there was a loaded pistol in the house.

It is too bad and a little strange, that no one has yet been able to "wing" some of the fine, large game, but some fellow will "catch it" yet. The question is often asked, who are the burglars, where do they come from, and how are they to be caught? Echo answers, "who," "where," "how."

Put on a large night police force, give them regular beats, and makethem shoot to hit when the chance is offered. "That will do the business."
